4. Chairperson's Annual Report

- This meeting includes the important presentation on professionalisation so members were asked to please read the Chairperson's report in their own time and a brief verbal summary will be presented.
- The Executive Committee's (ExCo) main challenge this year has been getting to grips with professionalisation and the complexities of registering the Professional Heritage Practitioner designation with the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA).
- The ExCo contracted Dr Richard Hill to drive the professionalisation process as he is uniquely positioned to help us as he has been involved in the same process with the Environmental Assessment profession.
- Thanks to all my ExCo colleagues, including Wendy Wilson for the time, effort and work done. Thank you to Muneera Kariem who stood down as the APHP Administrative Officer at the end of April 2022, we wish her well.
- The ExCo worked based on portfolios, which made the meetings more focused. The most significant portfolio this year was the Professionalisation portfolio headed by Elwyn Harlech-Jones and what was critical was getting Richard Hill on board to help us in this process.
- A turning point in this process was a Zoom meeting with the Association of Southern African Professional Archaeologists (ASAPA). We were considering the option of going directly to the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) for professional body recognition and to register the designation Professional Heritage Practitioner (PHP), but from seeing the strain this process placed on ASAPA we came to the opinion that the indirect route through the Environmental Assessment Practitioners Association of South Africa (EAPASA) should be followed. Richard Hill will elaborate.
- To get government bodies to grant us a professional designation, we must be seen as democratic and inclusive, therefore we have written to and engaged many interested parties and communicated with those outside and critical of APHP. We have evidence that we have made every effort to communicate with people and give them opportunities for input. Richard Hill will give a presentation and there will be time then to discuss, raise issues and ask questions.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- The related issue of transformation has been tackled by Emmylou Bailey, Jenna Lavin and Claire Abrahamse. APHP has prepared Core Competencies and produced draft documents for Minimum Standards for Social Heritage Impact Assessment and a draft policy on Transformation. It is essential we have and are seen to have had these discussions and policies in place, particularly as we are seeking professionalisation. Emmylou also produced a draft document on Cultural Landscapes.
- Thank you to the Accreditation Committee for generously giving your time and expertise. In our dealings with SAQA they have requested APHP not to use the term 'accreditation' of members. The reason is that SAQA uses the term accreditation in a specific way to represent the evaluation and accreditation of degree programs at universities for professional training, and SAQA does not want the word accreditation to be used in any other way. The Accreditation Committee has therefore been renamed the Membership Committee and will continue working under this name. Being a professional member of the APHP continues to carry weight in the marketplace and is therefore worthwhile for members.
- Emmylou Bailey led the Events Portfolio and held one event on renewable energy and heritage, with 3 presentations, chaired by Elwyn Harlech-Jones. Emmylou endeavoured to organise an event for Candidate members with no response.
- We have engaged with heritage authorities, for example, SAHRA, HWC, ECPHRA, CoCT. Claire Abrahamse has submitted a report which is included in the Chairman's report.
- A meeting with SAHRA led by Jenna Lavin was successful, details can be discussed at the end if you have any questions.
- Going through the professionalisation process has cost implications, and William Martinson will present the Annual Financial Statements later in the meeting, thank you William.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- Finally, it is noted that with the resignation of Wendy Wilson, Emmylou Bailey, Claire Abrahamse and Jenna Lavin, there are 3 nominations to fill these posts. We will proceed with 6 members on the ExCo and endeavour to co-opt a seventh member.
- In conclusion, particular thanks to Emmylou, Claire and Jenna for their hard work serving on the committee, which collectively represent 20 years of contributions - their expertise, insight and institutional memory will be missed. We wish you all well.

5. Professionalisation presented by Richard Hill

- Richard (RH) welcomed all to the presentation regarding professionalisation (see Annexure 4).
- Two options were presented for professionalisation: 1) via the Environmental Assessment Practitioners Association of South Africa (EAPASA) to SAQA or 2) directly to SAQA.
- ExCo have moved towards recommending the EAPASA route and that is to be tabled for a vote by members. Three documents, Annexures 1, 2 and 3 were circulated on the 4th May 2022 which will be tabled for adoption during the course of the meeting.
- At the APHP conference in 2015 two notions were agreed:
 1. Heritage Assessment Practitioners are a kind of Environment Assessment Practitioner (EAP), and
 2. APHP ExCo would pursue professionalisation under the proposed future Council for Environmental Professionals and engage with EAPASA on the way forward.
- On the 30th November 2021, ExCo and RH attended a SAQA workshop for prospective professional bodies to learn more about what the independent route would entail.
- In terms of the history of the evolution of the professionalisation of Environmental Assessment Practitioners, RH was a member of the working group for the national Environmental Impact Assessment and Management Strategy (EIAMS) which was developed over a 5-year period from 2010 to 2014, and was final editor of the strategy. From 2012 onwards, RH was also a Board member for EAPASA and therefore in a good position to provide integration between the EIAMS and EAPASA.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- The EIAMS proposed a Council for Environmental Professionals as an umbrella body under which there would be a range of associations, EAPASA (only one currently existing), Public Participation Practitioners, Social Impact Practitioners and Heritage Practitioners (see figure in presentation in Annexure 4). There is no indication that the Council for Environmental Professionals is imminent. To set up the Council, the Department of Forestry, Fisheries and the Environment (DFFE) (previously Environmental Affairs) would need to table a statute for adoption by Parliament to set up the Council for Environmental Professionals, which is unlikely in the short to medium term.
- When asked at a conference in 2021 about EAPASA's 5-year appointment which runs until 8th February 2023, a senior DFFE official said the DFFE is doing an analysis for the Minister to decide whether they should reappoint EAPASA for another 5 year period or find another vehicle.
- The APHP ExCo and RH have engaged with EAPASA. In October 2021 at EAPASA's strategic planning workshop, an APHP presentation was given to the workshop by Associate Prof. Jan-Albert Wessels from UNISA – thanks are due to Jan-Albert. It was noted at the meeting that in order to strengthen their application for reappointment by the Minister of Forestry, Fisheries and the Environment, EAPASA were preparing an application to SAQA to register designations for other categories of environmental professions.
- Dr Ilse Aucamp is working on the Core Competencies and other requirements for the designation 'Social Impact Practitioner', and Prof. Jan-Albert Wessels from UNISA is working on the documentation required for the designation of 'Environmental Authorisation Follow-up Practitioners'.
- In order to get the designation of Professional Heritage Practitioner registered with SAQA there are two routes: 1) EAPASA route or 2) APHP route direct. The first route would require the SAQA recognition of EAPASA to be modified because at present they only have one designation, which is Environment Assessment Practitioner (EAP). EAPASA has indicated a willingness to submit an application to SAQA for the registration of the designation PHP. If this were successful (the SAQA process typically takes 4 to 6 months), APHP would hand over registration of Professional

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

Heritage Practitioners (PHPs) to the EAPASA Board. ExCo has discussed the future of APHP if this were to take place and suggest that APHP could become a heritage voluntary association.

- The following points were noted in a summary of decision factors showing the pros and cons of the EAPASA route. The EAPASA route is less onerous in terms of human and financial resources, for example, no need for an office, staff, Registrar, registration administrators, finance managers, nor the legal costs to register as a Non-Profit Organisation (NPO) with the Department of Social Development (DSD). EAPASA has an office in Centurion with a full complement of staff (no duplication), are registered with the DSD, have an NPO number, and must submit an annual report to the DSD on their activities during each year. The disadvantage of the EAPASA route is that there is less control over the future of the heritage profession as APHP is handing over to another registration authority. ExCo and RH have a mitigating measure they will propose to reduce this drawback of the EAPASA route. If APHP goes with EAPASA and the application that EAPASA submits to SAQA for the designation PHP fails, APHP can still go the independent route, directly to SAQA. Why might it fail? EAPASA was recognised by SAQA as a statutory professional body, in that it was established under the National Environmental Management Act (NEMA) (the environmental profession does not have a dedicated Act of Parliament as do, for example, the Engineering Council of SA, the Architects, and others). The key question is whether SAQA will register non-statutory designations like Social Impact Practitioner or Professional Heritage Practitioner. SAQA officials have indicated an openness to such designations but cannot pre-empt what their legal department will say and have said APHP should submit the application for the registration of the PHP designation, and they will put it into the process and see what the SAQA Board decides.
- If the EAPASA route succeeds, and the SAQA Board registers the PHP designation, there is no turning back because of the involvement and commitment from all parties involved (committees, various officials, SAQA Board, EAPASA Board).
- In conclusion, APHP ExCo recommends the EAPASA route with a Memorandum of Agreement (MoA) between the two associations to mitigate the concerns of this route, which stipulates conditions under which APHP would be prepared to hand over the registration of PHPs to the EAPASA Board.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- It is important to note that this process would be contingent on EAPASA being appointed by the Minister for a second five-year period on the 8th of February 2023 (in 8 months' time).
- In summary, the EAPASA route is much less onerous than applying for a non-statutory professional body recognition, as the independent route requires a lot more documentation and costs. If APHP members do decide to go the EAPASA route, there are three key documents that need to be forwarded to EAPASA to submit to SAQA: Core Competencies document, Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Policy, and Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) Policy.
- SAQA must be convinced that EAPASA will then require PHPs to retain their designation through adhering to the APHP Code of Practice which is different to EAPASA's. This would open up the possibilities of what EAPASA could do for a range of other environmental professionals.
- RH summarised the three key documents adopted by the APHP ExCo which were circulated by email to members on the 4th May 2022:
 1. Core Competencies (6 key points)
 2. Draft CPD Policy (consistent across professions such as Engineers and Architects)
 3. Draft RPL Policy (based on membership guidelines).
- RH noted the ExCo postscript to his presentation: APHP does not claim to represent all parties currently engaged in heritage practice, but in the absence of anyone else taking the initiative has taken the lead in the professionalisation process. APHP would like to extend our reach as widely as possible and welcomes colleagues in the heritage field and all interested parties to participate in the process APHP has initiated.
- RH opened the meeting for discussion regarding professionalisation and after which the members would vote on the tabled resolutions.
- Bruce Eitzen, referring to the presentation, stated that generally, as a landscape architect, he agrees in principle it is correct that APHP should go through EAPASA because heritage assessment is part of the environmental assessment process. From the viewpoint of the experience of a small organisation like the Institute for Landscape Architecture in South Africa (ILASA), it is an onerous burden for a small organisation to fulfil the governmental requirements for recognition as a Professional Body. Thus, he questioned whether it is really necessary to do this. From the point of view of finances, logistics and the burden on a small profession to even run an ExCo and meet all the legal requirements seems too much. It is a big burden on individuals, professionals and a small profession when compared to other larger professions such as architecture and engineering. The significance of what we do is great, with reference to landscape heritage, which is an under acknowledged aspect of heritage under the National Heritage Resources Act (NHRA) and within the existing bodies. From the viewpoint of heritage and environment, there is a lack of sympathy between the environmental assessment background and the heritage assessment background, which is problematic. For these reasons Bruce Eitzen noted that the suggestion to have a heritage sub-committee within EAPASA is logical and could work.

- Gavin McLachlan responded that APHP has been accrediting people which is resented by those who view APHP as an elitist group, and who hold that the accreditation granted is invalid. These concerns should be overcome by handing over this onerous duty to EAPASA. This leaves us as a profession in a much less vulnerable position. If the PHP designation is accepted by SAQA via EAPASA, registration will still be voluntary, and you can continue to practice and trade as a heritage practitioner without being registered. However, EAPASA's rigorous professional registration of PHPs (albeit non-statutory) will mean client bodies will prefer or insist on having people who are registered with EAPASA because you will be complying with CPD and be up to date with trends and developments in the industry. In summary, APHP is a small body and we could see that going directly to SAQA was onerous and unsustainable, thus the EAPASA route is preferable. There are advantages to professionalisation of practitioners as it protects the public's interest by ensuring that those who are registered as PHPs are truly capable of delivering the heritage product or service required.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- Before the vote, RH read out each resolution from 1 to 4:

Voting on resolutions:

1. Resolution 1: Application for registration of PHP designation submitted via EAPASA TO SAQA.

The APHP ExCo is authorised to forward the tabled Application for the registration of the Designation 'Professional Heritage Practitioner' (PHP) to the Registrar of the Environmental Assessment Practitioners Association of South Africa (EAPASA) together with a proposed Memorandum of Agreement (MoA) to be negotiated and jointly adopted by both the EAPASA Board and the APHP ExCo. The contents of the MoA will be developed with input from APHP members after the AGM. Consequent to the signing of the MoA by both parties, the EAPASA Board will be authorised to submit to the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) the application for the registration of the PHP Designation. Should the application be rejected by SAQA for whatever reason, APHP reserves the right to apply directly to SAQA to be registered as a Non-Statutory Professional Body. Amendment proposed by Emmylou Bailey: The contents of the MoA will be developed with input from APHP members and other heritage professionals after the AGM. Amendment approved, no objections voiced.

Result of voting on resolution 1:

- approve (22) 85%
- not approve (1) 4%
- abstain (3) 12%.

2. Resolution 2: To adopt 'Annexure 1: PHP Core Competencies'

Result of voting:

- approve (22) 85%
- not approve (1) 4%
- abstain (3) 12%.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

3. Resolution 3: To adopt 'Annexure 2: PHP Continuing Professional Development Categories and Record Sheet'

Result of voting:

- approve (21) 81%
- not approve (1) 4%
- abstain (4) 15%.

4. Resolution 4: To adopt 'Annexure 3: PHP Recognition of Prior Learning Policy'

Result of voting:

- approve (23) 88%
- not approve (1) 4%
- abstain (2) 8%.

- Gavin McLachlan noted that regarding the MoA, a document will be prepared and circulated by email for members' comments. Any comments, concerns or inclusions that you want in the MoA can be emailed to APHP.
- RH suggested what could go into the MoA and asked if members present had anything they would like to add, saying any suggestions would be welcome. Jenna Lavin pointed out that regarding the MoA, there is a bind in who would decide what a heritage specialist is and who would be on the Board. The response is that APHP has prepared the set of Core Competencies - adopted at this AGM - that will be used in future to evaluate applications for registration as a PHP, and there will need to be heritage specialists on the EAPASA Board as proposed in the MoA.

6. Treasurer's Annual Report

- William Martinson presented the Treasurer's Report (see attached Annexure 5 and 6).
- There are 2 possible budget scenarios depending on whether the EAPASA route or the direct route to SAQA is taken.

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

- Common to both budgets for 2022/23: 7% increase in membership fees; secretarial support with no annual increase; no live events due to focus on professionalisation; the income is R96000; in both cases there would be a deficit, which would be covered by the retained income from 2022.
- Noteworthy under column B, the figure in the Annual Financial Statements (AFS) signed off by the auditor, a loss of R 5049 for 2022 which was covered by the retained income from the previous year, which concurs between the AFS and the Financial Report.
- The Annual Financial Statements for 2022 were adopted as proposed by Emmylou Bailey and seconded by Elwyn Harlech-Jones.
- The AFS 2022 need to be circulated to the ExCo and signed.

7. Amended APHP Constitution for Ratification

- An amendment to part 8 of the APHP Constitution was tabled because there was a situation this year where an ExCo member needed to stand down and we were not quorate. This resolution is giving an option that if you have a quorate seven member committee and one person resigns leaving six members, the ExCo can still function.
- Bruce Eitzen proposed an amendment regarding the proposed additional Constitutional item 8.5.6, suggests that this be incorporated in 8.5.5 as follows: "Failing to fill the position, the existing committee will remain quorate until the next election, or when the post has been filled."
- Emmylou Bailey noted that as RH drafted the proposed wording he can consider Bruce's suggestion carefully, and she proposed that the motion before the AGM should rather be as follows: 'The meeting supports the proposed change to the APHP Constitution in principle and entrusts Richard Hill to craft it in such a way that it fulfils the requirement and makes the changes appropriately'. This proposal was seconded by David Gibbs and Trevor Thorold, and the resolution was passed.
- Gavin McLachlan requested the AGM to approve this resolution for application retrospectively from the date Wendy Wilson resigned from ExCo so that the decisions taken from that time through to the present will be validated by the Constitutional amendment. No objections were raised by members to this proposal.

8. Nomination of new office bearers 2022-2023

- There are currently 4 vacancies in the ExCo (with resignations from Jenna, Claire, Emmylou and Wendy).
- Nominations tabled: Jonathan Stone, David Gibbs, and Dorelle Sapere.
- The nomination forms have been filled in with proposers and seconders.

The nominees were duly elected by the members.

9. Proposed motions

- None.

10. Any other business

- None

11. Closure

- Gavin MacLachlan thanked members for attending, thanked the outgoing Executive for their service, and said he looks forward to working with the new ExCo over the following year.
- The meeting adjourned at 19.24.

PHP Designation's Policy on Recognition of Prior Learning

Applicants for the Professional Heritage Practitioner (PHP) Designation are typically required to have a formal academic qualification in the form of a four-year University Degree or comparable Honours with learning outcomes at least at the South African National Qualifications Framework (NQF) Level Descriptor 8, in one or more of the following fields:

- Architecture
- Planning
- Archaeology
- Social, Oral and Urban History
- Landscape Architecture, Visual and Cultural Landscape Analysis
- Urban Design
- Palaeontology
- Heritage Law
- Other relevant disciplines.

Applicants are required to have further formal specialist training in conservation or heritage resource management including degrees, diplomas and specialist occasional courses.

The absence of either or both a formal academic qualification and formal specialist training in any of the fields listed above may be compensated by application of the principles of Recognition of Prior Learning in the form of at least seven (7) years of proven and relevant experience that constitutes professional standing in the field of heritage conservation and heritage management in South Africa in the application of sections 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 48, 49 and 51 of the National Heritage Resources Act (NHRA), Act 25 of 1999, related to one or more of the activities listed below:

- Conservation of the built environment
- Landscape and visual analysis
- Historical research including heritage related indigenous knowledge systems and archival research
- Site research, including measuring and excavating
- Heritage surveying / conservation studies of sites or regions
- Assessment of cultural significance in terms of legal parameters
- Development of heritage-related informants or design indicators
- Heritage impact assessment
- Construction and supervision of construction as it relates to heritage resources
- Design in a heritage sensitive context
- Regulating and drafting heritage related legislation
- Heritage resource management
- Other appropriate heritage-related activities.

Such relevant experience in lieu of a qualification and specialist training shall be deemed a satisfactory basis for the award of the PHP Designation if an applicant's work experience is judged to be of a sufficient standard by the Assessors and the relevant membership committee of the Association, in recognition of the applicant's experiential learning obtained in the workplace.

Richard Hill: Consultant to APHP

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

Contents

- ❖ APHP history of professionalisation and current status quo
- ❖ Two routes or options:
 - through EAPASA to SAQA
 - APHP to SAQA direct
- ❖ Decision factors, implications of each option
- ❖ ExCo recommendation – MoA with EAPASA, for AGM vote
- ❖ Annexures to application, for AGM adoption:
 - Annexure 1: Core Competencies
 - Annexure 2: Continuing Professional Development
 - Annexure 3: Recognition of Prior Learning

Professionalisation History

2015: APHP Conference on Professionalisation of the Heritage

Sector

- ❖ Agreed that Heritage Assessment Practitioners are a kind of Environmental Assessment Practitioner (EAP) who assess and manage impacts to the heritage environment.
- ❖ Agreed that APHP ExCo would pursue formal professionalisation under the Council for Environmental Professionals and engage with EAPASA on the way forward.

2021: APHP ExCo attended virtual compulsory South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) workshop for prospective professional bodies on 30 November 2021.

APHP

The Environmental Impact Assessment and Management Strategy for South Africa - 2014

Pillar 1: A statutory Council for Environmental Professionals with sub-bodies – professional associations – representing various disciplines; all environmental professionals are registered by Council & belong to appropriate association(s).

COUNCIL FOR ENVIRONMENTAL PROFESSIONALS

The Council co-ordinates, ensures uniformity within policy areas and does collective bargaining where appropriate

EAPASA Dealing specifically with EAPs	Association for Public Participation Practitioners	Association for Social Impact Assessors	Association for Environmental Control Officers	Associations for other Environmental Professionals e.g. Heritage, Environmental Planning
---	--	--	--	---

Each Professional Association and their attendant Board, constituted under the auspices of the Council, will have its own Constitution, Rule Book, requirements for CPD, etc., but is in line with the policies of the Council.

TABLE 4: THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE COUNCIL FOR ENVIRONMENTAL PROFESSIONALS AND THE PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATIONS

Association of Professional Heritage Practitioners

Status Quo - May 2022

- ❖ No indication that Council for Environmental Professionals is imminent.
- ❖ DFFE official: “EAPASA’s 5-year appointment runs until 8 February 2023. DFFE is doing an analysis for the Minister on different options including the option of going with EAPASA ... or should she get another vehicle.”
- ❖ EAPASA is preparing an application to the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) to register other categories of env. professionals:
 - Professional Heritage Practitioners
 - Social Impact Practitioners
 - Governance and Sustainability Practitioners, and
 - Environmental Authorisation Follow-Up Practitioners.

Professionalising PHPs – Members' decision required

Professional Heritage Practitioner (PHP) registered as Designation on National Qualifications Framework (NQF)

*by South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA), either by:

- ❖ EAPASA route - modifying EAPASA's SAQA recognition. EAPASA submits application for PHP designation to SAQA. If successful, APHP hands over registration of PHPs to EAPASA Board; APHP could become a heritage Voluntary Association, or
- ❖ APHP route - APHP applies to SAQA for recognition as Non-Statutory Professional Body, which includes application for registering PHP designation.

Summary of Decision Factors

- ❖ 'Pros' of EAPASA route: Much less onerous in terms of human and financial resources, and information requirements, e.g. no need for office, staff, nor costly registration as Non-Profit Organisation
- ❖ 'Cons' of EAPASA route: Less control over future of heritage profession
 - because handing over to another Registration Authority
 - proposal to mitigate this concern below

Implications of Options

- ❖ If APHP goes with EAPASA and their application to SAQA fails, can still go APHP route to SAQA.
- ❖ If EAPASA route succeeds and SAQA Board registers PHP designation, no turning back for APHP.

APHP ExCo recommends EAPASA route, subject to APHP–EAPASA MOA - for ratification by members

Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) negotiated with EAPASA listing

Conditions for APHP to hand over registration of PHPs - EAPASA shall:

- ❖ Change its Constitution and Board composition to include heritage specialists
- ❖ Appoint and train Heritage Assessors to evaluate applications
- ❖ Set up revised structures and procedures for evaluating Heritage applications
- ❖ Plus, further conditions set by APHP ExCo and members should members authorise EAPASA route at today's AGM.

MOA contingent on EAPASA being appointed by the Minister for a second 5-year period on 8 February 2023.

APHP

For EAPASA route, Annexures 1, 2 and 3 below tabled as resolutions at today's AGM for adoption by members:

- 1) Core Competencies document
- 2) Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Policy
- 3) Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) Policy

Criteria for members to retain PHP designation:

- adhere to Code of Practice
- practice CPD, and
- pay annual membership fees.

Core Competencies (CCs)

- ❖ Core Competency 1: Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the theoretical underpinnings of heritage practice.
- ❖ Core Competency 2: Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the South African legal & administrative context to discern what is relevant to decision-making.
- ❖ Core Competency 3: Demonstrate knowledge of heritage informants and the ability to conduct/commission historical research and consult with heritage claimants/authorities.
- ❖ Core Competency 4: Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of heritage qualities and the ability to determine heritage significance.
- ❖ Core Competency 5: Demonstrate the ability to analyse and interpret site and context.
- ❖ Core Competency 6: Demonstrate understanding and application of ethics of practice and behaviour.

Meeting open for discussion, questions or suggestions welcome, before members vote on the professionalisation resolutions,
'Approve' – 'Not Approve' – 'Abstain':

- ❖ Resolution 1: ExCo authorised to go EAPASA route with MoA.
Resolution 2 on CCs, 3 on CPD, and 4 on RPL policies.

The APHP ExCo looks forward to ongoing engagement with members and other colleagues in the heritage field on the journey to professionalisation of the heritage sector.

Postscript

APHP does not claim to represent all parties currently engaged in heritage practice, be it in consulting, authorities, academia or other arenas.

APHP has taken the lead in the absence (as best we know) of other steps towards professionalisation of the heritage sector.

APHP would like to extend our reach as widely as possible and welcomes colleagues in the heritage field and all interested parties to participate with us at each stage in the process we have initiated to advance the incipient heritage profession.

Accounting Policies

1 Presentation of Annual Financial Statements

The annual financial statements are prepared in conformity with generally accepted accounting practice, appropriate to the business of the organisation. The annual financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of certain property, plant and equipment, marketable securities and investment properties where appropriate, and incorporate the principal accounting policies set out below.

These accounting policies are consistent with the previous year.

Revenue

Revenue is measured at fair value of the consideration received or receivable for membership fees.

Interest is recognized, in profit or loss, using the effective interest rate method.
